State Faces Second Week Of Stifling Temperature

SUNDAY HIGH 100

41 Drown As Result Of Wave; Nation Still In Grip

By International News Service
Ohioans today faced the prospect of another stifling week as the torrid wave, currently in its 12th day with no relief in sight, was blamed for at least 70 deaths throughout the state.

The forecast was generally fair

100 DEGREES REACHED
Fifteen minutes after 4 p. m. Sunday saw Circleville's temperature at its highest mark for the day, 100 degrees being recorded on the government thermometer. This was one degree above Saturday's high. The all-time record during Sunday night was 76 degrees.

and continued warm, except for scattered thundershowers in eastern portions which might bring temporary and slight relief. Tuesday also was to be continued warm.

A checkup showed that the toll of victims whose deaths were attributable directly or indirectly to the heat reached 70. Of the total, 28 were due to heat prostration, 41 were drowning, and one person was killed by lightning.

Four drownings were recorded yesterday as thousands fled to pools, creeks and beaches in an effort to escape the heat. Columbus counted its fourth drowning in a week with the death of seven-year-old Nancy Geygan, who drowned in the Olentangy River north of the city.

Two Die In Muskingum

Two children were drowned in the Muskingum River near Ellis, north of Zanesville. They were Eugene Berkheimer, 14, and his sister, Lillie, 12, who stepped beyond their depth while wading. At Van Wert, three-year-old Betty Lou Miller drowned when a high wind blew the auto in which she was sitting into a quarry, where her parents had gone to escape the heat. Her body was recovered two hours later in 20 feet of water.

Mrs. Ida Anderson, 35, and her daughter, Gladys, 16, both of Cleveland drowned in the Huron River southeast of Sandusky.

Cincinnati recorded its 12th heat fatality of the current torrid wave with the collapse of Herman B. Geers, 63, an accountant in the Hamilton County auditor's office. While yesterday was not quite as hot as the previous day, when the mercury soared to new highs for the year for the fifth time since the heat wave began, temperatures still were in the high nineties.

FORD TO BUILD, KEEP AIRCRAFT FOR U. S. NEEDS

Ford, who turned down a government bid to build Rolls-Royce airplane engines because a portion of them would be shipped to England, was said to have decided on such a course of escape government regulations that are imposed by the national defense contracts. Under his reported plan, Ford will store the engines for possible sale to the government in the future.

Official Action To Be Aired Following Ambassador's Report Of Protest

LONDON, July 29—The reported death of Melville Cox, Reuters (British) news agency Tokyo correspondent, while in police custody in the Japanese capital brought swift warnings of possible British reprisals today.

News that Cox had died reached London as Britain's struggle against the axis powers in both the Far East and the Balkans overshadowed all other aspects of the news. Cox was reported to have been shot by Japanese soldiers during the German invasion of England.

A Reuters dispatch, quoting the Japanese (Domei) news agency, said Cox, who was arrested Saturday along with 10 other Britons in Japan, was fatally injured today when he jumped from the second floor headquarters of the Tokyo gendarmarie, "where he was being examined."

According to the dispatch, Cox died an hour and three-quarters later.

A Reuters dispatch quoted Domei as stating: "Japanese gendarmes strenuously attempted to prevent Cox's rash act, but failed."

"The act was attributed to Cox's realization that he could not escape punishment."

Death Angers London

The entire episode produced a heated reaction in London, where informed quarters made no secret of their sense of shock at Cox's death.

There was an immediate hardening of the British attitude toward Japan and authoritative quarters freely commented that if Japan is attempting deliberately to embarrass Britain "she had better be careful"—since such a campaign might prove a boomerang. Meanwhile, all official comment was withheld pending a report from the British ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie.

The Domei version of the Cox incident stated definitely that the Japanese suspected the veteran news correspondent of espionage.

This brought an immediate report from the Federation of British Industrialists, which declared all the arrested Britons in Japan had been engaged in "purely commercial work."

MAIN PROJECTS URGED BY HULL TO BE APPROVED

HAVANA, July 29—A virtually complete diplomatic victory for the United States was forecast today as delegates to the Inter-American Conference of Foreign Ministers prepared to hold another plenary session late this afternoon. Informed quarters said there was every prospect that the conference will adopt the main projects outlined in Secretary of State Cordell Hull's program for protecting the Western Hemisphere against totalitarian inroads.

Most important of these plans is creation of a committee to supervise European-owned territory in the Americas in the event of any attempt by a non-American power (Germany or Italy) to assume control of such colonies.

It was regarded significant that the resolution on this question scheduled for adoption would permit one or more nations to take decisive action in the event of a threat against territorial sovereignty in this hemisphere.

Fifty Incendiary Bombs Dropped During Offensive Fail To Cause Material Damage; R. A. F.'s Work Praised

LONDON, July 29—In the largest "bag" of any single raid thus far, British guns today brought down fifteen German war planes attempting a full-scale attack on an unidentified southeast coast port.

Turning and twisting in furious acrobatics to escape the devastating fire of British fighters, eighty German machines were driven off in the bitter aerial battle which lasted only half an hour, an official announcement said.

Once every two minutes, on an average, a German plane was shot down.

The German attack was led by a drove of 52 Messerschmitt fighters, closely followed by 30 Junkers "87" dive-bombers.

Strong formations of British Spitfires swept skyward into the attack, and within a few minutes after the first raider appeared on the horizon the air was filled with battling planes.

The number of Royal Air Force planes was not revealed.

The enemy bombers swept into the attack in two waves, while the escorting Messerschmitts circled at various heights above them, ready to pounce on the defending force. Spitfires and Hurricanes immediately took on both bombers and fighters.

One squadron of Spitfires alone destroyed four Messerschmitts and one bomber. A squadron of Hurricanes accounted for four bombers and one fighter. One pilot attacked three Junkers bombers within 20 seconds and brought down every one.

FAKE SCOUT FOR FILMS SLAIN FOR MURDERING GIRL

RAIFORD, Fla., July 29—Herbert Goddard, 29-year-old bogus movie scout and a man of many aliases, died in the electric chair today for the kidnap slaying of pretty Frances Ruth Dunn, Miami High School girl whom he lured away from home last August on the promise of screen tests.

Goddard—who had told Sheriff W. H. Lawrence of Palm Beach County he was glad to see his execution day dawn—was taken out of his cell in the death at 8:17 a. m. Monday, and he was pronounced dead at 8:33 a. m.

Although professing his anxiety to die, Goddard had carried his case to the Florida Supreme Court twice in an effort to escape the chair.

Goddard—also known as Thomas Ashwell, Thomas McBride Cochran, and several other names—was sentenced to death in Palm Beach County on September 28 for the slaying of Miss Dunn on a lonely stretch of beach near Boca Raton.

London Circles Shocked By Reports From Tokyo, Hint Reprisals

Balkans will be settled this week, authorities in London eagerly awaited Sir Robert's report on his conference with Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuoka.

(A Reuters dispatch from Tokyo said the British envoy called on Matsuoka this morning.)
Today's meeting between Sir Robert and the Japanese foreign minister was arranged Saturday, at which time Matsuoka was reported to have promised that he hoped to make broad answer to several points raised by the British envoy.

Sir Robert's report is expected to be a complete one and to deal also with details on the arrests of British business men in Japanese cities.

Authoritative London quarters said they regarded the Japanese arrests of Britons as "singularly unfortunate" in that they coincided with the British inquiry regarding future Anglo-Japanese relations.

(Reports from Shanghai said the detention of Britons by the Japanese was regarded as the beginning of a possible "purge" of British commercial and industrial experts connected with Japanese industries.)

Fantasies Say Britons
The Federation of British Industries, commenting on reports that the arrested Englishmen in Japan were suspected of espionage, stated:

"That is absolutely fantastic. They were engaged in purely commercial work."

Diplomatic representations regarding the arrests are expected, but the strength with which these are lodged will depend on guidance from the British ambassador with regard to present Japanese sentiment toward Britain.

As for the Far East, Anglo-Romanian relations were viewed as approaching an "inevitable crisis," with new moves and counter-moves this week perhaps leading to public admission of a break between London and Bucharest. Such a break already is in virtual existence, but not yet for the records.

The British minister in Bucharest already is understood to have delivered a protest against measures adverse to British interests, particularly, as regards oil.
(Editor's Note: A dispatch from Bucharest said the Romanian Government has decided to hold 18 British tugs seized in Danube River ports in retaliation for British detention of three Romanian ships at Port Said.)

In view of increasing public consciousness of these events in Britain, Prime Minister Winston Churchill is being urged to hold tomorrow's scheduled House of Commons debate on foreign affairs openly instead of in a secret session.

If that is impossible, Churchill has been asked at least to make his own opening speech publicly.

Blunt speaking is anticipated during the debate, which will range over such subjects as British relations with Spain, Soviet Russia, Romania and Japan.

Cox is survived by his wife, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Irvin Deakin of New York, and a stepson, Nicholas White who is with the United States fleet at Honolulu.

A penciled will on an envelope, claimed by the police to have been written by the veteran British correspondent shortly before he is said to have jumped, stated:

"I have been well treated, but there is no doubt how matters are going. I know what is best. Always my love."

The note also advised that Reuters' News Agency be advised of rents, that a friend consulted regarding deeds to property and insurance, and to have someone see the Hong Kong and Shanghai bank as to his balances and shares held in London.

BRITISH CLAIM VICTORY IN AIR

casualties, an official announcement said.

The 15 Nazi craft were brought down in a terrific battle. Both anti-aircraft guns and Royal Air Force planes shared honors in shooting down the Germans.

An official air ministry communique said:

"Strong formations of Royal Air Force fighters intercepted a large German raid on the southeast coast, shooting down eight bombers and seven fighters. One R.A.F. plane is missing."

"Several of our aircraft were damaged in this force engagement. One enemy bomber was shot down over southern England in a raid last night."

Three die in School

Three women were killed and a school and several houses were shattered in a raid on a northeast English town.

The air fight occurred at a tremendous altitude over both land and sea.

Official reports stated one German aircraft was shot down into the English Channel.

An official announcement earlier revealed that German planes had carried out new raids against the British Isles during the night.

An air ministry communique stated:

"Enemy aircraft crossed the coasts of Britain during the night. British defenses went into action and bombs were dropped in several districts. Houses were damaged and there were a few casualties."

For three hours British anti-aircraft guns roared and British fighting planes engaged German aircraft over Wales. Eleven bombs were dropped on one Welsh area, causing slight damage but no casualties, it was stated.

Searchlights also picked up a German raider over a northeast English town. Heavy anti-aircraft fire drove off the raider amid the crash of bomb explosions and machine-gun fire.

German planes also were reported over southwestern England shortly before midnight.

According to the British air ministry, nine German planes were shot down yesterday while carrying out attacks against Britain. Two British machines were said to have been lost.

(An announcement from Malta, British base in the Mediterranean, said four Italian aircraft had been destroyed. A report from Aden said that a British naval base had been raided, causing superficial damage to one merchant ship and killing one Indian seaman.)

Authoritative quarters said that over the week end the Germans used a new hit and run technique in raiding British harbors.

Bombs were fitted to single-seater Messerschmitt planes, it was said, but British quarters said this scheme proved unsuccessful and that 31 of these Nazi aircraft have been shot down in the last few days.

Nazi Bases Blasted

It was announced, meanwhile, that British bombers had dealt additional destruction to vital German objectives, including large fleets, supply ships, oil depots, airbases, docks and a strategic canal.

Late yesterday one battle resulted in the loss of five German bombers and defeat of a Nazi attack on a British shipping convoy off the southeast English coast.

BERLIN, July 29—Staggering blows against British shipping by lone Nazi undersea raiders was reported today by the German high command.

One U-boat alone sank 48,000 tons of shipping in a raiding cruise, the official communique said, and another submarine accounted for 18,750.

Stressing British shipping losses and minimizing the effectiveness of enemy air onslaughts on German territory, the communique said:

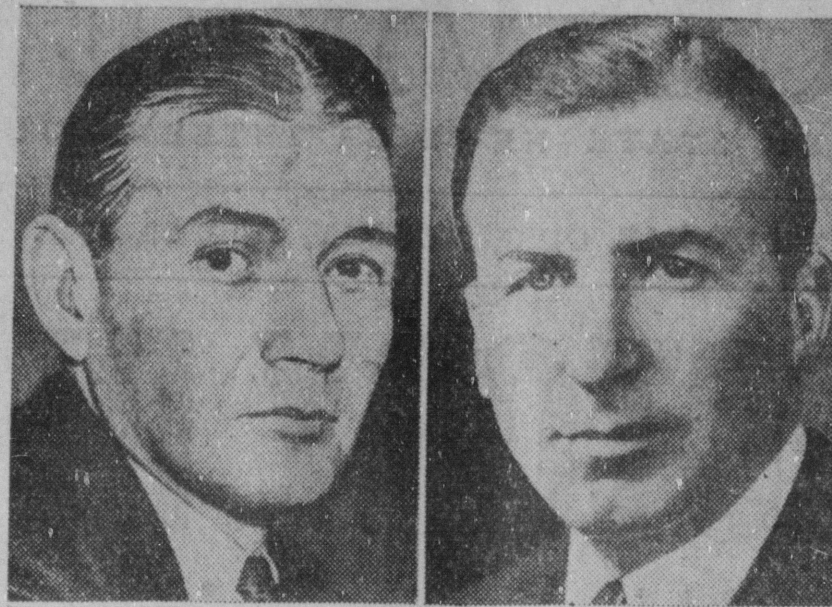

"One submarine under the command of Captain William Krollman—as already announced in a special report—sank five big armed merchant ships of a total of 48,000 tons, including an auxiliary cruiser of 18,000 tons. The convoy was forced to flee.

"Another armed British merchantman of 6,000 tons also was sunk by this submarine.

"Another submarine attacked a strongly secured convoy and accounted for 18,750 tons of enemy shipping while a third U-boat succeeded in sinking an armed merchantman of more than 6,000 tons off the English Coast.

"In the course of armed reconnaissance on July 28 at several points over the channel, six enemy

FIVE ARRESTED AS FEUD BREAKS OUT; ALL FINED

A family argument which started years ago between two families in Kentucky, broke out again Saturday night on Route 23, three miles north of South Bloomfield, and resulted in the arrest of five persons.

The quarrel began, Sheriff Chasles Radcliff reported, as the group was returning to Columbus after a swimming party. When a heated argument began between two members of the party, the car. In a fight along the road, Omer Polley, 25, of Columbus, driver of the car, received several cuts on his arm. He was fined $100 and costs before Elmer Malone, justice of peace of Harrison Township, for operating a motor vehicle when intoxicated, and released from County Jail Monday after his fine had been paid.

Others arrested were Nolan May, 26, and Robert Miles, both fined $25; Ray Adams, 29, fined $15, and Wade Fray, 19, of Louisville, fined $10 and costs, with the fine suspended. All four were fined on intoxication charges, and were released Sunday after arrangements for payment had been made.

Assisting in the arrests were Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer, Constable Hollenback and Marshal Robert Walden of Harrison Township, and Deputy Marshal Cecil Scott of Ashville.

All five persons, now living in Columbus, were originally from Kentucky, Sheriff Radcliff said.

KASEYS GO FAR AHEAD IN RACE FOR A. A. CROWN

COLUMBUS, July 29—If formalities could be dispensed with, the American Association bunting could be presented to Kansas City today.

The Minneapolis Millers practically eliminated themselves from the flag chase when they dropped a 12 to 5 decision to the Columbus Red Birds while the Blues were nosing out Indianapolis twice, 9 to 8 and 6 to 5. Combined with the Columbus win, the twin victory of the Kaws placed them seven full games ahead.

The Blues were forced to come from behind in both the 9th and 12th innings of the extra-canto first game to mark up their victory. Five Kaw hurlers saw service as Manager Bill Meyer used 17 players to win. The Indians threw another scare into the Blues when they shoved two runs over in the ninth of the nightcap, but the rally fell short.

Columbus soundly thumped the Millers, pounding a quartet of hurlers for 16 hits. The start of the second game of what was to have been a double header was delayed by rain, and the tilt was called in the third, officially making it no contest. The Millers were leading at the time, 4 to 0.

Toledo smacked out 3 hits off seven St. Paul pitchers to take a double bill, 7 to 5 and 7 to 6. The twin win enabled them to climb out of the cellar, with Indianapolis sliding into the vacated spot. The Milwaukee Brewers, who won their first double-header of the season the day before, reversed the procedure and dropped both ends of a twin tilt to Louisville, 5 to 4 and 7 to 6.

OHIO TOLL FROM HEAT WAVE 70

a high reading of 97 yesterday, counted two drowned and six dead from illnesses aggravated by heat as the weather man predicted the mercury would rise to 95 there again today. This would be Washington's twelfth successive day in which the temperature has risen above 90.

No relief was in sight for New York, where a forecast for "fair and warmer" came on the heels of a day in which the mercury rose to 94.4. Two heat deaths, two others prostrated and one drowning were added to New York's toll. More than 3,000,000 jammed beaches to escape the heat, with an estimated 1,300,000 bathers at Coney Island alone.

The New York World's Fair itself was a heat victim its attendance yesterday shrinking to 75,107 paid admissions, the smallest Sunday crowd this summer.

Chicago, which enjoyed a brief respite from heat, saw the mercury rise to 97 yesterday, and expected a maximum of 100 today. There was a possibility that thunderstorms would alleviate Chicago's suffering.

Baltimore, Mr., was severely stricken by the heat. The temperature there hit 97 yesterday, and 11 deaths and many prostrations were caused by heat.

The South, Rocky Mountain Region, much of New England, and the Far West enjoyed moderate temperatures.

Pennsylvania received a forecast for "quite warm" today and prepared for more plus-90 degree heat as its death toll rose to 32 from prostrations and 22 from drowning for the 11-day siege. The heat continued despite cyclonic winds which hit Bradford County, killing cattle, injuring two persons, and damaging every house in LeRaysville.

As for the Far East, Anglo-Romanian relations were viewed as approaching an "inevitable crisis," with new moves and counter-moves this week perhaps leading to public admission of a break between London and Bucharest. Such a break already is in virtual existence, but not yet for the records.

The British minister in Bucharest already is understood to have delivered a protest against measures adverse to British interests, particularly, as regards all.
(Editor's Note: A dispatch from Bucharest said the Romanian Government has decided to hold 18 British ships in Danube River ports in retaliation for British detention of three Romanian vessels at Port Said. It was reported to day. Both the British ships and Romanian vessels were seized last week.)

In view of increasing public consciousness of these events in Britain, Prime Minister Winston Churchill is being urged to hold tomorrow's scheduled House of Commons debate on foreign affairs openly instead of in a secret session.

If that is impossible, Churchill has been asked at least to make his own opening speech publicly.

Blunt speaking is anticipated during the debate, which will range over such subjects as British relations with Spain, Soviet Russia, Romania and Japan.

Cox is survived by his wife, a stepdaughter, Mrs. Irvin Deakin of New York, and a stepson, Nicholas White who is with the United States fleet at Honolulu.

A penciled will on an envelope, claimed by the police to have been written by the veteran British correspondent shortly before he is said to have jumped, stated:

"I have been well treated, but there is no doubt how matters are going. I know what is best. Always my love."

The note also advised that Reuters News Agency be advised of rents, that a friend consulted regarding deeds to property and insurance, and to have someone see the Hong Kong and Shanghai bank as to his balances and shares held in London.

BRITISH CLAIM VICTORY IN AIR

casualties, an official announcement said.

The 15 Nazi craft were brought down in a terrific battle. Both anti-aircraft guns and Royal Air Force planes shared honors in shooting down the Germans.

An official air ministry communiqué said:

"Strong formations of Royal Air Force fighters intercepted a large German raid on the south-east coast, shooting down eight bombers and seven fighters. One R.A.F. plane is missing."

"Several of our aircraft were damaged in this force engagement. One enemy bomber was shot down over southern England in a raid last night."

Three die in School

Three women were killed and a school and several houses were shattered in a raid on a northeast English town.

The air fight occurred at a tremendous altitude over both land and sea.

Official reports stated one German aircraft was shot down into the English Channel.

An official announcement earlier revealed that German planes had carried out new raids against the British Isles during the night.

An air ministry communiqué stated:

"Enemy aircraft crossed the coasts of Britain during the night. British defenses went into action and bombs were dropped in several districts. Houses were damaged and there were a few casualties."

For three hours British anti-aircraft guns roared and British fighting planes engaged German aircraft over Wales. Eleven bombs were dropped on one Welsh area, causing slight damage but no casualties, it was stated.

Searchlights also picked up a German raider over a northeast English town. Heavy anti-aircraft fire drove off the raider amid the crash of bomb explosions and machine-gun fire.

German planes also were reported over southwestern England shortly before midnight.

According to the British air ministry, nine German planes were shot down yesterday while carrying out attacks against Britain. Two British machines were said to have been lost.

(An announcement from Malta, British base in the Mediterranean, said four Italian aircraft had been destroyed. A report from Aden said that a British naval base had been raided, causing superficial damage to one merchant ship and killing one Indian seaman.)

Authoritative quarters said that over the week end the Germans used a new hit and run technique in raiding British harbors.

Bombs were fitted to single-seater Messerschmitt planes, it was said, but British quarters said this scheme proved unsuccessful and that 31 of these Nazi aircraft have been shot down in the last few days.

Nazi Bases Blasted

It was announced, meanwhile, that British bombers had dealt additional destruction to vital German objectives, including large fleets, supply ships, oil depots, airdromes, docks and a strategic canal.

Late yesterday one battle resulted in the loss of five German bombers and defeat of a Nazi attack on a British shipping convoy off the southeast English coast.

BERLIN, July 29—Staggering blows against British shipping by lone Nazi undersea raiders was reported today by the German high command.

One U-boat alone sank 48,000 tons of shipping in a raiding cruise, the official communiqué said, and another submarine accounted for 18,750.

Stressing British shipping losses and minimizing the effectiveness of enemy air onslaughts on German territory, the communiqué said:

"One submarine under the command of Captain William Krollman—as already announced in a special report—sank five big armed merchant ships of a total of 48,000 tons, including an auxiliary cruiser of 18,000 tons. The convoy was forced to flee.

"Another armed British merchantman of 6,000 tons also was sunk by this submarine.

"Another submarine attacked a strongly secured convoy and accounted for 18,750 tons of enemy shipping while a third U-boat succeeded in sinking an armed merchantman of more than 6,000 tons off the English Coast.

"In the course of armed reconnaissance on July 28 at several points over the channel, six enemy airplanes were shot down. One of our machines was destroyed.

"During the night ending July 29, the British airplanes dropped only a few bombs in northern and western Germany without causing damage.

"Only in Hamburg, one bomb exploded in a house.

"Speedy action by our air defense organization prevented any great damage, however.

"During the course of a raid on Holland, two enemy airplanes were shot down by our pursuit airplanes and another was destroyed by anti-aircraft fire.

"One airplane was shot down by anti-aircraft batteries in northern France and another in northern Germany.

"Total enemy losses yesterday amounted to 11 planes. Two of our aircraft are missing."

FIVE ARRESTED AS FEUD BREAKS OUT; ALL FINED

A family argument which started years ago between two families in Kentucky, broke out again Saturday night on Route 23, three miles north of South Bloomfield, and resulted in the arrest of five persons.

The quarrel began, Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported, as the group was returning to Columbus after a swimming party. When a heated argument began between two members of the party, the car. Others arrested were Nolan May, 26, and Robert Miles, both fined $25; Ray Adams, 29, fined $15, and Wade Fray, 19, of Louisville, fined $10 and costs, with the fine suspended. All four were fined on intoxication charges, and were released Sunday after arrangements for payment had been made.

Assisting in the arrests were Deputy Sheriff Bryan Custer, Constable Hollenback and Marshal Robert Waldon of Harrison Township, and Deputy Marshal Cecil Scott, of Ashville.

All five persons, now living in Columbus, were originally from Kentucky, Sheriff Radcliff said.

Mrs. Bower was a member of the Methodist Church of Kingston and of the Ne Plus Ultra class of that Sunday School.

KASEYS GO FAR AHEAD IN RACE FOR A. A. CROWN

COLUMBUS, July 29—If formalities could be dispensed with, the American Association bunting could be presented to Kansas City today.

The Minneapolis Millers practically eliminated themselves from the flag chase when they dropped a 12 to 5 decision to the Columbus Red Birds while the Blues were nailing out Indianapolis twice, 9 to 8 and 6 to 5. Combined with the Columbus win, the twin victory of the Kaws placed them seven full games ahead.

The Blues were forced to come from behind in both the 9th and 12th innings of the extra-canto first game to mark up their victory. Five Kaws hurlers saw service as Manager Bill Meyer used 17 players to win. The Indians threw another scare into the Blues when they shoved two runs over in the ninth of the nightcap, but the rally fell short.

Columbus soundly thumped the Millers, pounding a quartet of hurlers for 16 hits. The start of the second game of what was to have been a double header was delayed by rain, and the tilt was called in the third, officially making it no contest. The Millers were leading at the time, 4 to 0.

Toledo smacked out 3 hits off seven St. Paul pitchers to take a double bill, 7 to 5 and 7 to 6. The twin win enabled them to climb out of the cellar, with Indianapolis sliding into the vacated spot. The Milwaukee Brewers, who won their first double-header of the season the day before, reversed the procedure and dropped both ends of a twin tilt to Louisville, 5 to 4 and 7 to 6.

'HEIL HITLER' REMARK PUTS SOLDIER IN COURT

BALTIMORE, July 29—A "heil Hitler" remark, allegedly made by a soldier, Priv. Arthur Capri, 27, of Edgewood (Md.) arsenal, prompted David Shore, proprietor of a confectionery and other customers to demand his arrest.

Patrolman Thomas O'Neil wanted to arbitrate, but was refused and Capri was charged with disorderly conduct. Shore's store is located in a Jewish area.

He was not only interested in satisfying his own curiosity. He expected to get reports from the commanding officers of the various defense units tending to refute the charges of administration critics that the billions appropriated for preparedness are being poorly spent. His presence, with accompanying reporters, photographers and newsmen, is expected to dramatize those reports.

a high reading of 97 yesterday, counted two drowned and six dead from illnesses aggravated by heat as the weather man predicted the mercury would rise to 95 there again today. This would be Washington's twelfth successive day in which the temperature has risen above 90.

Millions Crowd Beaches

No relief was in sight for New York, where a forecast for "fair and warmer" came on the heels of a day in which the mercury rose to 93.4. Two heat deaths, two others prostrated and one drowning were added to New York's toll. More than 3,000,000 jammed beaches to escape the heat, with an estimated 1,300,000 bathers at Coney Island alone.

The New York World's Fair itself was a heat victim its attendance yesterday shrinking to 75,107 paid admissions, the smallest Sunday crowd this summer.

Chicago, which enjoyed a brief respite from heat, saw the mercury rise to 97 yesterday, and expected a maximum of 100 today. There was a possibility that thunderstorms would alleviate Chicago's suffering.

Baltimore, Mr., was severely stricken by the heat. The temperature hit 97 yesterday, and 11 deaths and many prostrations were caused by heat.

The South, Rocky Mountain Region, much of New England, and the Far West enjoyed moderate temperatures.

Pennsylvania received a forecast for "quite warm" today and prepared for more plus-90 degree heat as its death toll rose to 32 from prostrations and 22 from drowning for the 11-day siege. The heat continued despite cyclonic winds which hit Bradford County, killing cattle, injuring two persons, and damaging every house in LeRaysville.

Kansas got some relief yesterday, but was doubtful today that it would last. Arizona suffered hail and electrical storms, the worst of the kind in forty years there, and fears of heavy crop damage were expressed.

F. D. R. ON TOUR OF DEFENSES IN NORFOLK REGION

NORFOLK NAVY YARD, Va., July 29—Guns roared and smartly dressed sailors snapped to rigid attention today as President Roosevelt came ashore at this key navy yard to begin a whirlwind inspection tour of naval, aerial and coast artillery defenses in the Hampton Roads area.

The White House yacht Pottomac, which brought the President and his official party from Washington, swung into dock shortly before ten o'clock this morning. Mr. Roosevelt waited only for the 21-gun salute before going over the side.

Today's visit to Norfolk was President Roosevelt's first in his capacity as chief executive.

He spent the day inspecting the naval, aerial and coast artillery facilities in and around the Norfolk naval base.

He was not only interested in satisfying his own curiosity. He expected to get reports from the commanding officers of the various defense units tending to refute the charges

DEMOCRATS OF DISTRICT MEET AT GOLD CLIFF

President Of Federation Of Women Speaks During Saturday Confab

OTHER LEADERS PRESENT

Candidates For Various Offices Introduced At Gathering

By Lyall Cryder
Miss Catherine Carter of Norwood, president of the State Federation of Democratic Women of Ohio, was guest speaker at the Eleventh District meeting Saturday at Gold Cliff Park, giving an excellent party talk and a splendid review of the recent Democratic Convention in Chicago, Ill.

About 60 Democratic men and women of the district gathered at the park for the picnic dinner at 6:30 p. m. and the meeting which immediately followed.

Miss Carter in her talk urged a united front for Democracy for the campaign months, putting in the hands of each party member the duty of upholding the President in his trying wartime work. She pleaded for all to vote the straight ticket, and told that unity was the keyword of the campaign. She told of the accomplishments of the President during his two terms, stating in detail the benefits in Ohio.

The speaker briefly reviewed the various days of the convention, culminating with the last two days when President Roosevelt was nominated for the third term as president and Secretary Wallace was accorded the nomination for vice-president.

Turning her attention to Ohio, Miss Carter discussed the previous term in office of Martin L. Davey, Democratic nominee for governor of Ohio. Miss Carter's knowledge and deep interest in the work of the party was evidenced in her excellent array of facts. Her concise statements during the discussion hour deeply impressed the interested group.

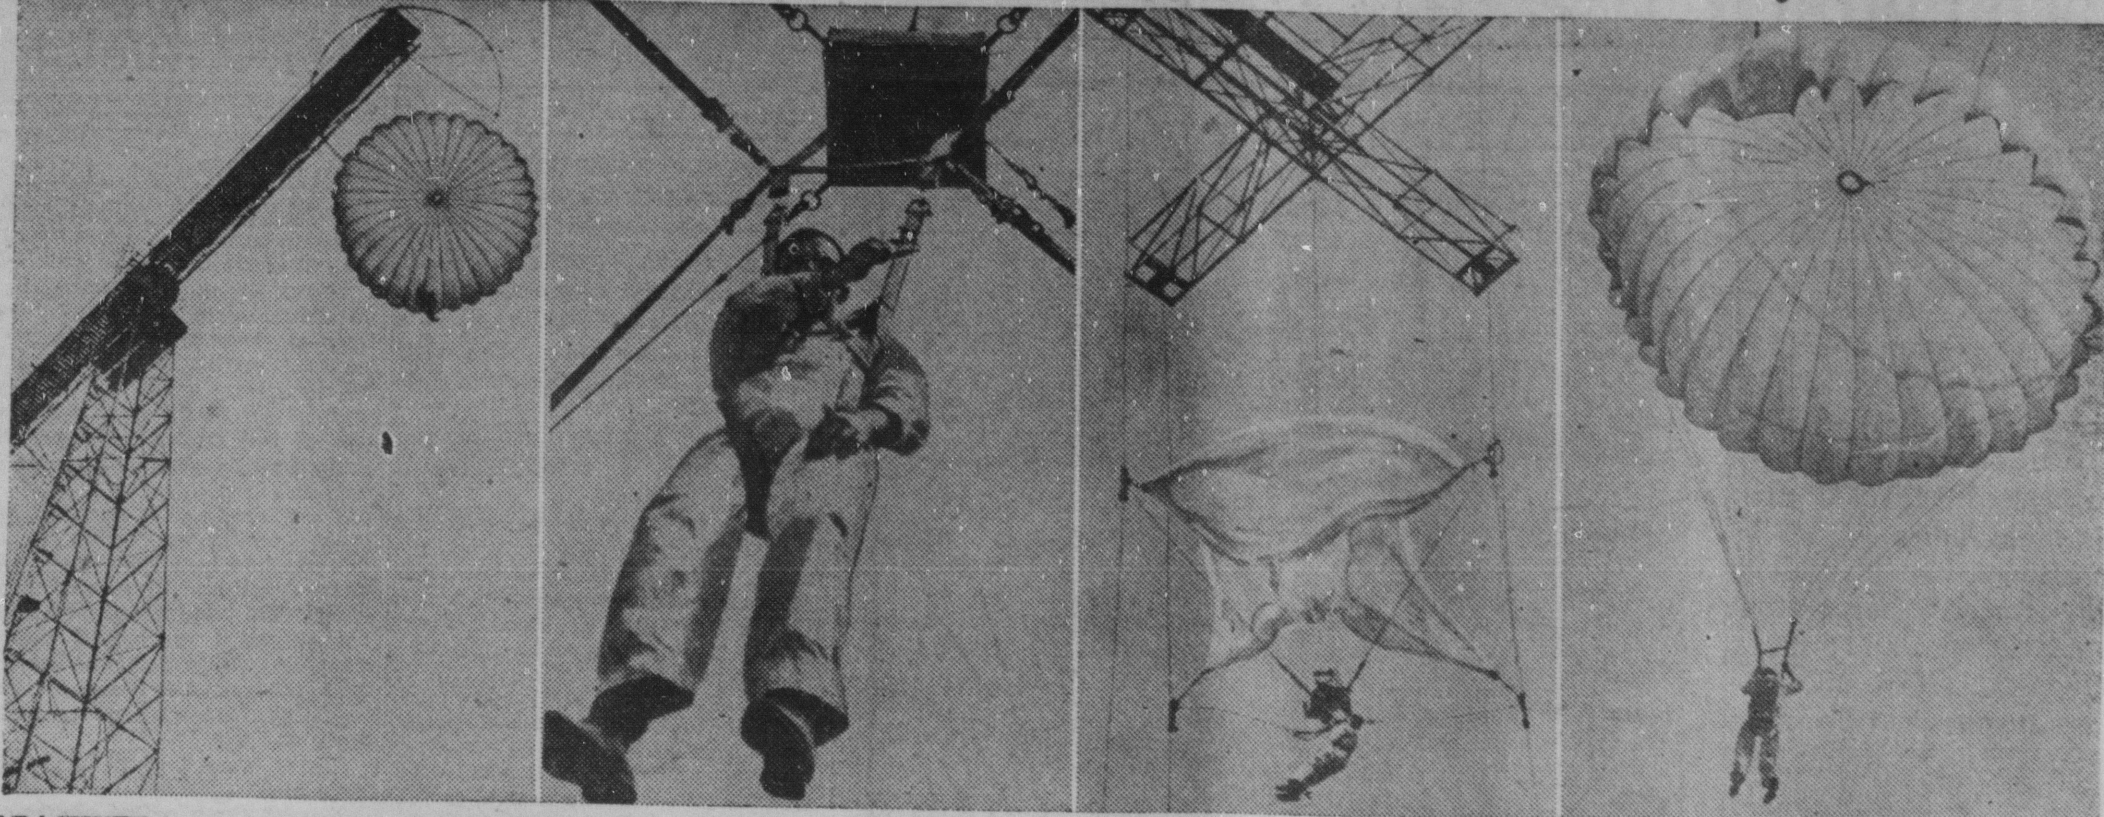

Mrs. King in Charge
Mrs. Orion King, West High Street, president of the Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club, was in charge of the meeting. Preceding Miss Carter's talk, Mrs. King introduced Mrs. J. Ross Phillips of Lancaster president of the Fairfield County Democratic Women's Club and Mrs. Mae Campbell, Lancaster, club secretary, who spoke briefly. Mrs. Al Palmer, Chillicothe president of the Ross County Democratic Women's Club and Mrs. Nellie Van Meter, honorary chairman, were presented by Mrs. King. Both spoke informally. Mrs. Van Meter is also vice chairman of the Ross County Democratic Executive Committee.

Mrs. Hulise Hays, district committee woman, and C. K. Hunsicker, delegate to the Chicago Convention, were presented as was Harry B. Welch, candidate for the legislature from this county, who brought greetings to the group from Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for governor. Other candidates for county offices introduced were Mrs. Florence Campbell, recorder, Arthur Wilder, clerk of courts, and Henry McCrady county engineer-elect. Many prominent party men and women extended informal greetings.

Democratic men and women from Chillicothe, Lancaster, Cincinnati, Columbus, Ashville, Williamsport and many other central Ohio points joined in the enthusiastic district get-together.

Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker was chairman of the general committee for the district meeting and picnic. She was assisted by Mrs. Hulise Hays Mrs. John Ward, Mrs. Ray Reid and Miss Emily D. Yates of Circleville; Mrs. Tom Gephart and Miss Nelle Osterle of near Ashville.

Willkie's Speech Being Written Without Advice Of Chieftains In Party

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 29—The first draft of Wendell Willkie's acceptance speech rolled out of stenographer's typewriters today, to be checked, revised and timed.

After a full day of dictation and reading back broken only for a dinner engagement with Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, recent president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Republican presidential candidate had made considerable progress on this speech which is to be his personal platform. It will not take final form until the candidate has tried it out on a few intimates and personal advisers to get their reaction.

Indications are that it will carry the Willkie personal touch for no old line party leader has visited Colorado for personal consultation since the candidate has been here.

It is one of the unusual circumstances of this campaign to date that the candidate has made a dozen speeches and committed a considerable part of his acceptance speech to paper without benefit of personal contact either with party leaders or an array of experts.

Originally it was considered good speculation that former President Hoover, Alf M. Landon, George Wharton Pepper and William Allen White would visit the candidate. Also expected were Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota who guided Willkie's floor campaign at Philadelphia, Chairman Joe Martin of the Republican national committee and Russell Davenport termed "personal adviser" by the candidate.

Speech Not Advised
Willkie has had contact by phone, wire or mail with some of these men, but none has come for personal consultation on the drafting of the important acceptance speech.

The candidate has discussed foreign affairs with Anne O'Hare McCormick and farm problems with Governor George Wilson, of Iowa, and George N. Peek, first administrator of the A.A.A., and director of the export-import bank. There has been no labor, defense, or economics expert in the picture to date and the candidate apparently will draw on his own knowledge of these fields in completing his acceptance speech.

O'DANIEL WINS IN TEXAS VOTE

No Run-off Necessary As Governor Gains Big Edge Over Foes

DALLAS, Tex., July 29—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, former flour salesman who does his campaigning with the aid of a hillbilly band, today was apparently assured of re-election as the state's chief executive.

The governor piled up a big lead, amounting to more than 53 percent of the vote, in returns from the Texas primary, with about two-thirds of the vote counted, the totals for the first four candidates were:

O'Daniel 467,503.
Col. Ernest O. Thompson, 185,423.
Harry Hines 95,828.

Former Gov. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson 72,392.

A majority of the votes necessary to nominate, without a run-off primary, and it appeared certain O'Daniel would have a majority. Nomination on the Democratic ticket in Texas is tantamount to election.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally won renomination by an overwhelming margin, and had the highest total vote of any candidate, 495,293. Representative Sam Rayburn likewise won overwhelmingly, with a lead of 5 to 1. Congressman Mar-

MOUND AT MT. LOGAN REVEALS NINE SKELETONS

CHILLICOTHE, July 29—Digging in a mound three miles north of Mound City, three young archaeologists, Cornell and Dard Hunter, Jr., brothers, and Harold Counts have uncovered nine complete skeletons of ancient Mound Builders.

The mound from which the skeletons were taken is located just across the Scioto River from the old Gardner Village location, on an old Indian trail that ran west from Mount Logan.

Pat Barrett, who plays "Uncle Ezra" Saturdays at 9 p. m. over the NBC-Red, is planning to build a sending station on his southern Illinois farm. Wonder if it'll be a replica of his "powerful little five watter down in Rosedale?"

The girls in Phil Spitalny's orchestra have formed a swimming club to meet at a midtown pool where they'll cool off between shows at the New York Strand Theatre where they open soon. They feel that the occasional swimming will keep them refreshed for their stage and radio work.

DEMOCRATS OF DISTRICT MEET AT GOLD CLIFF

President Of Federation Of Women Speaks During Saturday Confab

OTHER LEADERS PRESENT

Candidates For Various Offices Introduced At Gathering

By Lyall Cryder
Miss Catherine Carter of Norwood, president of the State Federation of Democratic Women of Ohio, was guest speaker at the Eleventh District meeting Saturday at Gold Cliff Park, giving an excellent party talk and a splendid review of the recent Democratic Convention in Chicago, Ill.

About 60 Democratic men and women of the district gathered at the park for the picnic dinner at 6:30 p. m. and the meeting which immediately followed.

Miss Carter in her talk urged a united front for Democracy for the campaign months, putting in the hands of each party member the duty of upholding the President in his trying wartime work. She pleaded for all to vote the straight ticket, and told that unity was the keyword of the campaign. She told of the accomplishments of the President during his two terms, stating in detail the benefits in Ohio.

The speaker briefly reviewed the various days of the convention, culminating with the last two days when President Roosevelt was nominated for the third term as president and Secretary Wallace was accorded the nomination for vice-president.

Turning her attention to Ohio, Miss Carter discussed the previous term in office of Martin L. Davey, Democratic nominee for governor of Ohio. Miss Carter's knowledge and deep interest in the work of the party was evidenced in her excellent array of facts. Her concise statements during the discussion hour deeply impressed the interested group.

Mrs. King in Charge
Mrs. Orion King, West High Street, president of the Pickaway County Democratic Women's Club, was in charge of the meeting.

Preceding Miss Carter's talk, Mrs. King introduced Mrs. J. Ross Phillips of Lancaster president of the Fairfield County Democratic Women's Club and Mrs. Mae Campbell, Lancaster, club secretary, who spoke briefly.

Mrs. Al Palmer, Chillicothe president of the Ross County Democratic Women's Club and Mrs. Nellie Van Meter, honorary chairman, were presented by Mrs. King. Both spoke informally. Mrs. Van Meter is also vice chairman of the Ross County Democratic Executive Committee.

Mrs. Hulise Hays, district committee woman, and C. K. Hunsicker, delegate to the Chicago Convention, were presented as was Harry B. Welch, candidate for the legislature from this county, who brought greetings to the group from Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for governor. Other candidates for county offices introduced were Mrs. Florence Campbell, recorder, Arthur Wilder, clerk of courts, and Henry McCrady county engineer-elect. Many prominent party men and women extended informal greetings.

Democratic men and women from Chillicothe, Lancaster, Cincinnati, Columbus, Ashville, Williamsport and many other central Ohio points joined in the enthusiastic district get-together.

Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker was chairman of the general committee for the district meeting and picnic. She was assisted by Mrs. Hulise Hays, Mrs. John Ward, Mrs. Ray Reid and Miss Emily D. Yates of Circleville; Mrs. Tom Gephart and Miss Nelle Oesterle of near Ashville.

Willkie's Speech Being Written Without Advice Of Chieftains In Party

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 29—The first draft of Wendell Willkie's acceptance speech rolled out of stenographer's typewriters today, to be checked, revised and timed.

After a full day of dictation and reading back broken only for a dinner engagement with Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, recent president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the Republican presidential candidate had made considerable progress on this speech which is to be his personal platform. It will not take final form until the candidate has tried it out on a few intimates and personal advisers to get their reaction.

Indications are that it will carry the Willkie personal touch for no old line party leader has visited Colorado for personal consultation since the candidate has been here.

It is one of the unusual circumstances of this campaign to date that the candidate has made a dozen speeches and committed a considerable part of his acceptance speech to paper without benefit of personal contact either with party leaders or an array of experts.

Originally it was considered good speculation that former President Hoover, Alf M. Landon, George Wharton Pepper and William Allen White would visit the candidate. Also expected were Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota who guided Willkie's floor campaign at Philadelphia, Chairman Joe Martin of the Republican national committee and Russell Davenport termed "personal adviser" by the candidate.

Speech Not Advised
Willkie has had contact by phone, wire or mail with some of these men, but none has come for personal consultation on the drafting of the important acceptance speech.

The candidate has discussed foreign affairs with Anne O'Hare McCormick and farm problems with Governor George Wilson, of Iowa, and George N. Peek, first administrator of the A.A.A., and director of the export-import bank. There has been no labor, defense, or economics expert in the picture to date and the candidate apparently will draw on his own knowledge of these fields in completing his acceptance speech.

O'DANIEL WINS IN TEXAS VOTE

No Run-off Necessary As Governor Gains Big Edge Over Foes

DALLAS, Tex., July 29—Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, former flour salesman who does his campaigning with the aid of a hillbilly band, today was apparently assured of re-election as the state's chief executive.

The governor piled up a big lead, amounting to more than 53 percent of the vote, in returns from the Texas primary, with about two-thirds of the vote counted, the totals for the first four candidates were:

O'Daniel 467,503.
Col. Ernest O. Thompson, 185,423.

Harry Hines 95,828.
Former Gov. Miriam (Ma) Ferguson 72,392.

A majority of the votes necessary to nominate, without a run-off primary, and it appeared certain O'Daniel would have a majority. Nomination on the Democratic ticket in Texas is tantamount to election.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally won renomination by an overwhelming margin, and had the highest total vote of any candidate, 495,293. Representative Sam Rayburn likewise won overwhelmingly, with a lead of 5 to 1. Congressman Mar-

HORRORS

NO rational American wants to take a horror bath but neither do we want to harden our hearts and shut our eyes to what is going on in less happy parts of the world, among the victims of military and ideological wars. Morris C. Troper, European chairman of the American-Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, says:
"It is impossible to picture to Americans who live in peace and security the horrors that are taking place all over Europe today. Hundreds of thousands who formerly lived in comfortable circumstances found themselves suddenly deprived of everything. The shock of events, the sudden uprooting from home and land, will leave their marks upon people forming the backbone of European culture and civilization unless they receive immediate material and moral encouragement from abroad. They must be assisted in their struggle for survival on a continent where respect for human dignity has lost much of its meaning."

COTTON AND RAYON

THE difficulties which rayon has had in being accepted wholeheartedly by people who like good materials are easily reduced to simple terms. Buyers compare it with the materials to whose uses they have been accustomed and find fault with it because it is not like them. The fabrics which look like silk are naturally compared with true silk, and they are not silk. The ones which resemble linen likewise. Most importantly, the ones which look like cotton are not cotton. When they are accepted on their own terms, subject to their own laws of wear, washing and tension, they are usually satisfactory, as their increased demand seems to prove. They become better, also, as time goes on and the kinks are ironed out of their manufacture.
Now comes a process which, if it turns out well, will put an end to the war between cotton and rayon. It is a discovery made by Dr. Frank Kenneth Cameron of Chapel Hill, N. C., a plan to harvest the entire cotton plant, stalk, leaves, boll and all and grind the whole thing into a source of cellulose. A harvested cotton plant would be cheaper than wood, and can of course be grown more quickly. The rayon makers turned from cotton to wood as a source only because it cost less. The Mellon Institute of Pittsburgh, which makes tests for the National Cotton Council and the Cotton Research Foundation is working on the new plan now, and naturally the cotton growers hope it may prove practical.
The housewife, of course, hopes so, too. She would like to get back the substantial and durable qualities of the cottons of old,

BULLITT WROTE BLAST AT SOVIETS

WASHINGTON—Inside fact regarding the scathing State Department blast at Soviet Russia for seizing the Baltic states was that it was drafted largely in Hyde Park, and that Ambassador William Bullitt had a lot to do with the drafting. Under Secretary of State Welles merely acted as the mouthpiece.
The State Department had written a statement criticizing Russia's seizure of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, and sent it to Hyde Park for approval. Here Bill Bullitt, ex-Ambassador to Russia who now hates everything about it, completely rewrote the statement, putting in some of its most pungent phrases.

The incident is significant, for two reasons: 1st, it illustrates how the President and his favorite ambassador act as a super-State Department; and 2nd, it indicates that despite the increasing belligerency of Japan, the Roosevelt Administration is loath to warm up to its most logical ally in the Pacific, Soviet Russia.

The closeness of the Bullitt-Roosevelt tie-up has become rather embarrassing to the rest of the State Department. For instance, following Bullitt's return from Europe last week he did not even visit the State Department. He went straight to the White House, and after a week-end there, accompanied the President to Hyde Park.

As a result, the State Department had no idea what Bullitt's views were on the Petain Government. In fact, while he was issuing public statements approving the Petain regime, his alleged colleagues in the State Department were of the very positive opinion that the Petain Government was a mere puppet for Germany, and that it would be replaced sooner or later by another puppet government under the ex-Communist, now Nazi, Jacques Doriot.
Bullitt's last days in Paris and Vichy comprise one of the most important chapters in recent world history. But the State Department knows no more about it than the interviews which its ambassador gives to the press.

JAPAN'S RAMPAGE

U. S. intelligence reports from the Far East state that Japan will join the Axis officially and actively just as soon as Hitler launches his big blitzkrieg on Britain. Meanwhile, the Japanese military have adopted the policy of causing as many incidents as possible to annoy the United States and to fan them up in the Japanese press. There is no question in the minds of U. S. officials that this strategy is being worked out in co-operation with Hitler and has two ends in view:
1st, to keep the American public worried about the Far East, so that the White House cannot become too absorbed with the plight of England during Hitler's blitzkrieg.
2nd, to convince the Japanese public that there is nothing to fear from the United States. The more the Japanese press attacks this country, and the more

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles P. Stewart

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT is supposed to have picked Henry A. Wallace for second place on his ticket, not only because he wanted the latter as his running mate, but with a view to getting him in to the White House.
This doesn't mean that F. D. thinks he can't live through another term in the executive mansion. Neither does it necessarily mean that, if he's re-elected, he intends to resign, provided world conditions become less critical than they are at present—though that story, without any confirmation, is current likewise.
What it does mean, according to capital gossip, is that the president has Wallace sized up as the best man to take over the New Deal leadership four years hence at the latest—to be president himself, whether as a Democrat, a Republican, a New Dealer or what-not being of no particular consequence; his politico-economic philosophy rating as the essential consideration.
It's a yarn which can't be verified, but it's obvious, anyway, that F. D. really does have a very high opinion of his agriculture secretary, now probably retiring from a cabinet to go nationally campaigning. Otherwise he wouldn't have forced him, as he did upon so conspicuously unwilling a convention.

ICKES AND HOPKINS

One wouldn't think that such rip-snorting New Dealers as Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes and Commerce Secretary Harry Hopkins would fancy the idea of having Wallace presidentially preferred to one of themselves.
However, the fact remains that Henry actually does discuss New Deal policies more scientifically than the average believer in them. "Harry the Hop," as he's widely known in Washington, has all the zeal in the world, but he isn't much of a student. He asserts but he doesn't argue. Ickes is an ardent believer, but he doesn't tell "why" very clearly. A lot of New Dealers classify similarly. So do plenty of "antis."
Wallace reasons. Some of its wrong, possibly, but it sounds logical.
In all likelihood President Roosevelt appreciates this, and maybe he deems Henry a heavier intellectual weight than most of his associates.
He unquestionably is, personally, extremely fond of Harry Hopkins, who virtually lives at the White House, but Harry isn't good presidential material. Ickes might be a little better, but even he hasn't Wallace's substance.
Well, Harold and Harry show no signs of being disgruntled, anyway. Some other New Dealers are outright howling.

A GOOD ORGANIZATION

Incidentally Henry has, in the agriculture department, a first-rate organization, which perhaps can be made politically useful.
Assuming he quits his cabinet post, Henry won't have it directly under his thumb. Nevertheless, a corps of agents, scattered throughout the country, are beholden to him, and of course to the administration generally. Henry's in close touch with them, naturally.
Moreover, an organization's particularly important to the New Deal ticket just now because of Chairman Farley's retirement from the directorship of the national committee.
That that committee can maintain its efficiency with "big Jim" out of it is a decided uncertainty. If it degenerates, Wallace's set-up will be immensely helpful.
Four Years Ahead
Assuming that Washington guessers are right, Henry practically can be regarded as running vice presidentially for president four years ahead.
To be sure, he'll have to be vice presidentially elected first.
And then, in 1944 (if he's vice presidentially elected this time) he'll have to be presidentially elected.
There are a good many "ifs" about it.

DIET AND HEALTH

Your Child In Camp

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS OFTEN remembered that the modern habit of sending boys and girls to camp in large groups would probably not have been feasible or advisable fifty years ago. The object of camp life is primarily health. Modern sanitation and preventive medicine have made such gatherings really safe from the health viewpoint. We wonder why nobody thought of them in our grandfather's time, but in our grandfather's time, camping concentrations would have been hazardous, not healthy.
The greatest single danger that has been eliminated is typhoid fever. The experience of American troops in camp concentrations during the Spanish-American War with the frightful incidence of typhoid followed by the experience of the British army in the Boer war in preventing it by individual inoculation showed the way to safety from this ancient curse, and that was only forty years ago. Every child that goes to camp should have a preventive typhoid inoculation. It's true it often spoils several days of vacation with a slight fever or sore arm, but it can be done long before camp starts. The same may be said of diphtheria prevention.

Safe Water

The nature of the water supply will be investigated by any experienced camp director. If the camp secures its water supply from a city or village reservoir that is subject to frequent inspection, all well and good. Some camps own their own water shed, and can police it. If there is any question about the water supply chlorination is done.

The disposal of sewage, if trunk line sewers are not available, can be accomplished by septic tanks.

Physically Fit Campers

The preliminary physical examination to see whether the camper is fit for all the strenuous activities of camp life is also a protection.

One of the great benefits of camp life is to correct capricious appetites. The emphasis on vegetables, milk, fruits and the elimination of an overabundance of sweets makes for the building of strong, hard bodies and the loss of softness.

Another good effect of camp in many cases is to get the child away from its dependent home atmosphere and put it on its own. Those possessive parents who spend their vacation near the camp so they can "see how the child is getting along," are spoiling the good effect of camping as much as those who bootleg candy and cake to their darlings.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SEVEN

WHEN LINDA opened the door into the outer room of the Bagley Models' agency, where she had her desk, she expected to see Clarabell Ackerman working at her desk, a desk she had been occupying while Linda was getting something to eat.

Clarabell was at the desk. But she was not working. She never would work again.

Her body slumped over the desk and her arms hung limp at her sides. The green eyeshade was shattered and her face was half covered with red blood. Fresh blood, Linda realized in that first moment of panic.

She wanted to run. To scream even louder. But some instinct drew her nearer. Maybe Clarabell wasn't dead. Maybe if she called her, there would be a sign of life. "Clarabell!" She was so near that body now that she could see the blood on her clothes. And she could see the bullet hole in the girl's head.

Shot! Clarabell had been shot while she stooped over to work. That second spot on her blouse must be another wound. But who would kill her? Poor, simple, unexciting Clarabell Ackerman, who had telephoned for a milk shake only five or ten minutes before?

Why, this just had happened! Maybe the murderer was somewhere near. She shivered and turned back to the door. She must get help. But where? The elevator operator was down on the first floor and it would be a long time until he could get the signal and come up. Usually he stood at the entrance at night and only occasionally turned his head to see if a signal was flashing. Oh, if this were only daytime, when all the elevators shot up and down, instead of night with just one operator on hand.

With a trembling hand she reached for the telephone. She must get the police, Caroline, Mr. Bagley.

Then two things happened. A man's voice had been talking on the radio. Now it stopped and a woman's came on. Mina Nevins. Yes, that was the role Mina was playing. So Clarabell had died to the intonations of a voice she worshipped, never knowing about the woman who had that voice.

But the other disturbance was so startling that she let the telephone slip to the floor and roll away.

Distinctly, clearly, subtly she caught the odor of the perfume that Mina Nevins used. Suddenly it seemed to be everywhere. She was being upset, excited, she whispered to herself. That perfume was in her mind and tragedy brought it back, that was all.

She ran, then, down the hall. She heard steps and paused, aghast. The murderer! But where could she hide? Where could she go?

There was another corridor, not so wide, and that hall, faster and faster, though it seemed to her that her legs were weak and filled with water. Oh, this was a nightmare, one of the kind of dreams where you tried to run but your legs wouldn't work.

Then she was aware of heavy steps coming after her, running. But she had reached the end of the narrow hall and there was no place to go. She tried a door which said "Exit," but it was locked. She tried another which led to someone's dark office, but it did not open.

At last, she cowered against the wall, waiting.

There were two people coming. Two men.

One of them called and she recognized the voice. It was Joe, the elevator boy. Quietly she slipped to the ground, her legs refusing to support her further.

She did not faint, though, and when the men had helped her up she looked at the other one. It was the night watchman.

"Oh, I was hoping you were around," she panted. "I was so afraid. It's Clarabell—I went in, and she'd died. . . . Her voice died away as she remembered the white face, blood spattered, under the broken green lamp shade which had protected the girl's eyes.

"We know," Joe said. "I was bringing Mr. Parrish here up when we heard a scream. We went down the hall and saw it, then we saw someone running and followed. We thought we had the crook."

Linda explained her actions and operator while the watchman summoned the police. She waited with the elevator man until police officers, detectives and the coroner came. In the midst of the hurrying arrivals, Mr. Bagley appeared and she told her story again.

At last she was taken to the room where the dead girl lay across the desk. Nothing had been changed. Some of the detectives were examining the blood through pieces of glass. The men wore gloves and Linda noticed that they touched nothing.

"She hasn't been dead long or the blood wouldn't be red," the commissioner said.

Someone else was sprinkling powder on the desk in a quest for fingerprints.

"Dragon's blood powder," Mr. Bagley explained to Linda. "It will show up any marks."

"Humph!" the man snorted. "Whoever was here was mighty smart. No prints around except what must belong to Miss Ackerman."

HORRORS

NO rational American wants to take a horror bath but neither do we want to harden our hearts and shut our eyes to what is going on in less happy parts of the world, among the victims of military and ideological wars. Morris C. Troper, European chairman of the American-Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, says:

"It is impossible to picture to Americans who live in peace and security the horrors that are taking place all over Europe today. Hundreds of thousands who formerly lived in comfortable circumstances found themselves suddenly deprived of everything. The shock of events, the sudden uprooting from home and land, will leave their marks upon people forming the backbone of European culture and civilization unless they receive immediate material and moral encouragement from abroad. They must be assisted in their struggle for survival on a continent where respect for human dignity has lost much of its meaning."

COTTON AND RAYON

THE difficulties which rayon has had in being accepted wholeheartedly by people who like good materials are easily reduced to simple terms. Buyers compare it with the materials to whose uses they have been accustomed and find fault with it because it is not like them. The fabrics which look like silk are naturally compared with true silk, and they are not silk. The ones which resemble linen likewise. Most importantly, the ones which look like cotton are not cotton. When they are accepted on their own terms, subject to their own laws of wear, washing and tension, they are usually satisfactory, as their increased demand seems to prove. They become better, also, as time goes on and the kinks are ironed out of their manufacture.

Now comes a process which, if it turns out well, will put an end to the war between cotton and rayon. It is a discovery made by Dr. Frank Kenneth Cameron of Chapel Hill, N. C., a plan to harvest the entire cotton plant, stalk, leaves, boll and all and grind the whole thing into a source of cellulose. A harvested cotton plant would be cheaper than wood, and can of course be grown more quickly. The rayon makers turned from cotton to wood as a source only because it cost less. The Mellon Institute of Pittsburgh, which makes tests for the National Cotton Council and the Cotton Research Foundation is working on the new plan now, and naturally the cotton growers hope it may prove practical.

The housewife, of course, hopes so, too. She would like to get back the substantial and durable qualities of the cottons of old,

BULLITT WROTE BLAST AT SOVIETS

WASHINGTON—Inside fact regarding the scathing State Department blast at Soviet Russia for seizing the Baltic states was that it was drafted largely in Hyde Park, and that Ambassador William Bullitt had a lot to do with the drafting. Under Secretary of State Welles merely acted as the mouthpiece.

The State Department had written a statement criticizing Russia's seizure of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, and sent it to Hyde Park for approval. Here Bill Bullitt, ex-Ambassador to Russia who now hates everything about it, completely rewrote the statement, putting in some of its most pungent phrases.

The incident is significant, for two reasons: 1st, it illustrates how the President and his favorite ambassador act as a super-State Department; and 2nd, it indicates that despite the increasing belligerency of Japan, the Roosevelt Administration is loath to warm up to its most logical ally in the Pacific, Soviet Russia.

The closeness of the Bullitt-Roosevelt tie-up has become rather embarrassing to the rest of the State Department. For instance, following Bullitt's return from Europe last week he did not even visit the State Department. He went straight to the White House, and after a week-end there, accompanied the President to Hyde Park.

As a result, the State Department had no idea what Bullitt's views were on the Petain Government. In fact, while he was issuing public statements approving the Petain regime, his alleged colleagues in the State Department were of the very positive opinion that the Petain Government was a mere puppet for Germany, and that it would be replaced sooner or later by another puppet government under the ex-Communist, now Nazi, Jacques Doriot.

Bullitt's last days in Paris and Vichy comprise one of the most important chapters in recent world history. But the State Department knows no more about it than the interviews which its ambassador gives to the press.

JAPAN'S RAMPAGE

U. S. intelligence reports from the Far East state that Japan will join the Axis officially and actively just as soon as Hitler launches his big blitzkrieg on Britain.

Meanwhile, the Japanese military have adopted the policy of causing as many incidents as possible to annoy the United States and to fan them up in the Japanese press. There is no question in the minds of U. S. officials that this strategy is being worked out in co-operation with Hitler and has two ends in view:

1st, to keep the American public worried about the Far East, so that the White House cannot become too absorbed with the plight of England during Hitler's blitzkrieg.

2nd, to convince the Japanese public that there is nothing to fear from the United States. The more the Japanese press attacks this country, and the more

ICKES AND HOPKINS

One wouldn't think that such rip-snorting New Dealers as Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes and Commerce Secretary Harry Hopkins would fancy the idea of having Wallace presidentially preferred to one of themselves.

However, the fact remains that Henry actually does discuss New Deal policies more scientifically than the average believer in them. "Harry the Hop," as he's widely known in Washington, has all the zeal in the world, but he isn't much of a student. He asserts but he doesn't argue. Ickes is an ardent believer, but he doesn't tell "why" very clearly. A lot of New Dealers classify similarly. So do plenty of "antis."

Wallace reasons. Some of its wrong, possibly, but it sounds logical. In all likelihood President Roosevelt appreciates this, and maybe he deems Henry a heavier intellectual weight than most of his associates.

He unquestionably is, personally, extremely fond of Harry Hopkins, who virtually lives at the White House, but Harry isn't good presidential material. Ickes might be a little better, but even he hasn't Wallace's substance.

Well, Harold and Harry show no signs of being disgruntled, anyway. Some other New Dealers are outright howling.

A GOOD ORGANIZATION

Incidentally Henry has, in the agriculture department, a first-rate organization, which perhaps can be made politically useful.

Assuming he quits his cabinet post, Henry won't have it directly under his thumb. Nevertheless, a corps of agents, scattered throughout the country, are beholden to him, and of course to the administration generally. Henry's in close touch with them, naturally.

Moreover, an organization's particularly important to the New Deal ticket just now because of Chairman Farley's retirement from the directorship of the national committee.

man and maybe Miss Avery. You sat here first, you say?"

"Yes," she said it briefly. "Then she wanted to use my desk."

"Sorry, miss, but we better get your fingerprinted, too. Will help us to distinguish if there should be a third party around."

Some of the men were fingerprinting Clarabell and Linda looked away. It was dreadful to see those limp hands raised and the fingers pressed against the blotter.

Some of the detectives went away. Some more came and with them some reporters.

"Miss Avery, you were alone here all evening with Miss Ackerman?" the commissioner of police asked.

"Oh yes, ever since Mr. Bagley left."

The man turned to Joe, the elevator boy. "Joe, you said you heard a scream and saw Miss Avery running. Any chance it wasn't Miss Avery's scream you heard?" He paused and asked in a softer, beguiling voice. "Could it have belonged to the dead girl?"

Joe shifted from one foot to another. "I don't know, sir. I never heard any of them scream before. But Miss Avery wouldn't do it. She just wouldn't."

Linda sprang to her feet, her eyes black with anger. "You mean you think I did this? That you want to pin it on me?"

"There, there, Miss Avery. No one wants to pin anything on anyone. We just want to find the guilty party. This girl was murdered and someone did it."

"But I didn't. I just came in. Joe brought me back and the sandwich shop people saw me a few minutes ago. I won't be treated like a criminal!"

Wasn't Ronnie's show ever closing? Wouldn't he ever come? Or hadn't anyone called him, she wondered wildly. Her hair was loose and the curls were tumbling around her face and she knew the pink linen frock, so crisp that morning, was crushed and tired looking now.

"Did Miss Ackerman have any enemies?" somebody important in detective circles asked.

The commissioner went on, disregarding the interruption. "Miss Avery, could it have been that that shot, two shots, were intended for you? The green eyeshade would hide your face, this girl is about your build, and the room is in shadow. It's a quite possible mistake. Could anyone have wanted your life?"

At that moment Linda had stooped to pick up a fallen handkerchief. She thought it was her own until she caught that whiff of scent, exotic, beguiling, and, yes, treacherous. She turned the linen square around, searching for an initial. Yes, there was one.

Social Calendar

Miss Mary Ann Sapp became the bride of Mr. John Patrick Moore Monday at a wedding marked by its simplicity, the nuptial mass being sung at 8 a. m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church by the Rev. Fr. Cussins, of St. Charles Seminary, Columbus. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Howard Sapp of Circleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William Hoffman of Wayne Township.

Baskets filled with tall spikes of white gladioli and other lovely white blossoms were on either side of the approach to the altar before which the nuptial vows were repeated. Vases of fern fronds completed the altar decorations.

The bride and bridegroom walked down the aisle together with Miss Betty Sapp and Mr. William Goeller, their attendants, as Mrs. George Groom, church organist, played the Lohengrin Wedding March.

Attractive in a street frock of aqua crepe with dubonnet accessories, Miss Sapp wore a corsage of Rubrum lilies pinned at her shoulder. She carried a white prayer book and rosary, a gift from the bridegroom.

Her bridesmaid chose a similar dress of dusty pink, wearing white accessories and a corsage of white asters and baby breath.

During the ceremony Miss Eleanor Snyder and Mr. Joe Burns sang "Ave Maria" in addition to the music of the mass. Miss Snyder's solo during the communion period was "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy."

Immediately after the service, the new Mr. and Mrs. Moore left for a motor trip through Michigan.

Today's Garden-Graph

The fuchsia deserves even more attention than it receives from the average gardener for it is one of the few plants which will really bloom profusely in the shade. It is for this reason that fuchsias are popular for use in window boxes on the north side of the house or as potted plants for the shady corner of the porch or terrace.

Sometimes, however, fuchsias need special care as a sort of payment for their willingness to bloom in the shade, since they are are apt to be attacked by red spiders or green aphids. When either of these pests put in an appearance on a fuchsia, the plant should be given a shower bath as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. The fine stream of cold water will clean the plant of either, or both, red spiders and green aphids.

Fuchsias like lots of water and they also respond well to fertilizing with a complete plant food, or one rich in nitrogen. Since fuchsias are bothered by draughts, they should be placed where the wind cannot reach them.

At one time small circuses were sometimes known to sell the pocket picking privilege for the season to the gang which made the highest bid.

Pirates Move To Fifth In Torrid Loop Race

By Ed Kiely

NEW YORK, July 29—It took an iron rule, a few trades and plenty of juggling, but today the Pittsburgh Pirates were living up to Manager Frankie Frisch's early season prediction that "we may not win any medals, but we'll cause plenty of trouble."

After a poor start, the Buccaneers are making a fast comeback and, at present, are as torrid as the weather, having won 16 of their last 22 games.

Yesterday the Pirates, no longer baseball's "playboys," swept a four-game series with the Boston Bees by capturing both ends of a double-header, 5 to 2 and 7 to 3. The double win enabled the Pirates to slip into fifth place in the National League and to move to within three games of the first division. At the same time, the double loss forced the Bees into last place, replacing the Philadelphia Phillies who, heretofore, held a corner on the cellar.

Meanwhile the Brooklyn Dodgers picked up a game on the league-leading Cincinnati Reds by crushing the Cardinals in a twin-bill, 3 to 0 and 7 to 4. Whitlow Wyatt shutout the Red Birds with three hits in the opener and Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons celebrated his 39th birthday anniversary by chalking up his tenth victory against one loss this season in the afterpiece.

The Reds, with Jim Turner on the mound, defeated the Phillies 7 to 2 in the first game of a doubleheader, but failed to hit behind their ace pitcher, Bucky Walters, in the nightcap and lost, 4 to 1. The crippled New York Giants with two regulars on the sidelines, cemented themselves in third place by belting the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 4, for the second consecutive day.

The big news in the American League was that Louis (Call Me Bobo) Newsom broke his string of 13 straight pitching victories by dropping a tough 11-inning contest to the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 5.

Hurling for the first time since he fractured his thumb in a game a fortnight ago, the big Detroit right hander blew up in the eleventh. Allowing three runs and three hits before being relieved by Archie McKain.

The Tigers, however, maintained a one game lead in the league standings as the Cleveland Indians split two games with the Washington Senators. The Tribe won the opener, 6 to 3 and dropping the nightcap 9 to 1.

Before the largest crowd of the day—40,000 fans—the New York Yankees halved a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox but set a new record when they developed six homers in the first game. These gave the New Yorkers a total of 17 circuit clouts in their last five games, beating the old mark for a similar number of contests by one. The Yanks won the first game, 10 to 9 and lost the second, 8 to 4. Charley Keller and Joe DiMaggio led New York's bombardment, the former collecting three homers and the latter two.

The Boston Red Sox crushed the St. Louis Browns twice, 3 to 1 and 13 to 10.

OLIVER SHOOTS BRILLIANT GOLF TO WIN $1,600

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 29—Ed Oliver, Hornell, N. Y., today won the St. Paul Open championship crown, having put together a brilliant beginning and a brilliant finish to edge out defending champion Dick Metz of Chicago by one stroke.

On the first round of the 72-hole tournament, Oliver had a splitting headache, but he shot a 6 under par 66 to put himself out in front. On the final round yesterday, he shot a 69, including a birdie four on the last hole. Second and third round cards of 71 and 70 made his 72-hole score 276.

The new champion, a 23-year-old professional for whom experts see a big future, got $1,600 out of the total of $7,500 in prize money. The tournament was played over the Keller course.

Tied with Metz in second place was Willie Goggin of Chicago. Their final scores were 277, Jim

The Tigers, however, maintained a one game lead in the league standings as the Cleveland Indians split two games with the Washington Senators. The Tribe won the opener, 6 to 3 and dropping the nightcap 9 to 1.

Before the largest crowd of the day—40,000 fans—the New York Yankees halved a doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox but set a new record when they walloped six homers in the first game. These gave the New Yorkers a total of 17 circuit clouts in their last five games, beating the old mark for a similar number of contests by one. The Yanks won the first game, 10 to 9 and lost the second, 8 to 4. Charley Keller and Joe DiMaggio led New York's bombardment, the former collecting three homers and the latter two.

The Boston Red Sox crushed the St. Louis Browns twice, 3 to 1 and 13 to 10.

Decorrevont was stricken with a ruptured appendix Saturday night while acting as a boys' counselor at a camp which was established at Rainey Lake, near here, by the late Jack Vance, Northwestern backfield coach. The grid star was operated on yesterday.

Physicians said Decorrevont's condition appeared to be good, but added it would be another day before they were certain that peritonitis had not set in.

About This And That In Many Sports

Many sports enthusiasts believe that Circleville is about ripe for a baseball team, and that some definite steps toward providing such a club will be made in plenty of time for next summer. . . . It is a shame that Circleville is without baseball, many youngsters with fine possibilities wasting all their ability on the softball diamond. . . . Development of the northern playground property may have something to do with establishments of baseball here

SWAIN TO SEEK NEW HONORS ON VARIOUS TRACKS

CHICAGO, July 29—Swain, a roan colt owned by Cleveland Putnam of Lake Forest, Ill., today was pointed for the Belmont and Pimlico Futurities with prospects for strong backing as a result of his victory in the $48,565 futurity at Arlington Park Saturday.

The roan, a son of Ladysman and a product of the Almahurst farm in Kentucky, won the Arlington Futurity by five lengths, and was pulling rapidly away from the high-class field at the finish. On a track drenched by overnight rains, Swain ran the six furlongs in 1:13 4/5.

The feat duplicated one by the colt's sire, Ladysman, which won the first running of the Arlington Futurity in 1932. Swain paid $13.20, $6.40 and $4, and brought his owner a net of $34,470. Valinda Groom was second and Whirlaway third. The race closed Arlington Park's most successful race meeting since 1929. The mutual handle for 30 days was $11,758,956, as compared with $9,426,317 last year. Saturday's event alone brought 30,000 spectators and $632,715 in bets.

Washington Park today opened a 31-day race meeting which will include the American Derby on August 10 with an added money value of $40,000, a $20,000 futurity on August 24 and a $25,000 handicap on September 2. Most of the Kentucky Derby entrants and all of the recent Arlington classic runners have been nominated for the derby.

Cincinnati Lead Amounts To Eight Games After Splitting Double

BUCK WALTERS BEATEN

Jim Turner, Aided By Two Home Runs, Has Little Trouble In First

NEW YORK, July 29—The Cincinnati Reds, eight full games ahead of the pack despite a split with the lowly Philadelphia Phillies yesterday, blew into New York today to try their hands at Giant-killing in the first of a three-game series. Whitey Moore was expected to take the mound for the Reds against King Carl Hubbell.

The Reds marked up an easy 7 to 2 victory in the first tilt against the Phillies, with Jim Turner coasting to his sixth straight victory and his eighth of the season. The Reds smacked out 14 bingles while Turner was scattering seven.

In the nightcap, however, the Phils snapped Bucky Walters' six-game win streak, defeating the Cincinnati ace 4 to 1. The fireworks began in the initial count, when the Phils pounded out five hits and made them good for three runs. It was Walters' fifth defeat against 15 wins.

Successive homers by Iva Goodman and Frank McCormick accounted for three runs in the fifth stanza of the first game to give the Reds a commanding lead.

Reds To Get Much Action During Week

CINCINNATI, July 29—If the Reds are looking for hard work, they'll get plenty of it the next week. Following a three-game series at the Polo Grounds in New York against the Giants, which will end with a night game Wednesday, they will head for Boston where a six-game series in three days will be played against the Boston Bees. Doubleheaders are scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Next Monday, August 5, will be open for traveling, but on the following day, Tuesday, August 6 the Reds will open a six-day home stand on their own field. Their first opponents will be the Chicago Cubs in a single game Tuesday. The Cubs also will be the Reds' opponents on the two following days. Wednesday, August 7, will be ladies' day.

On Friday, August 9, the St. Louis Cardinals, who have been playing the best ball of any team in the league the past few weeks, with the exception of the Reds, will appear at Crosley Field in a night game. This night will be designated as "Kentucky Night," in honor of the large number of Kentuckians who will be at the contest as the guests of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

St. Louis also will play the Reds on the following afternoon, Saturday, August 10, then will close its stay in Cincinnati with a doubleheader on Sunday, August 11.

Bill McKechnie is highly pleased over the showing of his athletes, particularly the manner in which they have played against the contending teams. In contrast to last year, the Reds are gaining their first place margin by beating off the first division teams. They haven't done as well against the second division outfits. Last season the Reds knocked the stuffings out of the second division teams and did barely better than .500 against the closest contenders.

Defying Saturday's blazing sun, nearly 500 persons met at the Teegardin Farm, near Ashville, to participate in the Ohio Shorthorn picnic.

At the gathering, members of the Ohio Shorthorn Breeders' Association, mid-western battlemen, agricultural officials and guests saw, ate and talked about Polled Shorthorn cattle.

Festivities began at noon when a barbecue pit, containing 560 pounds of Polled Shorthorn beef was, opened and the meat served to the visitors. Lawrence Kunkle head of the meat cutting division of the animal husbandry department at Ohio State University, was in charge of the barbecuing. The meat, kept in cold storage since the steer was butchered two weeks ago, was cut in 20 pound pieces and placed in the pit at 9:30 Friday night, Kunkle stated, adding that the long roasting at low temperatures tended to make the meat more tender. The pit was 15 feet long and three feet deep. Gross weight of the meat before the bones were removed was 710 pounds.

Renick Dunlap, Pickaway County farmer and assistant secretary of agriculture in the Coolidge and Hoover administrations, delivered the opening address for the program which followed the picnic lunch. He discussed the early history of Shorthorn cattle in Ohio.

Officials Present

Following the opening address, H. J. Gramlich, secretary of the American Shorthorn Breeders' Association, talked on the opportunities for Shorthorn cattle breeders in Ohio and on the work of the Association. Professor Carl W. Gay, former head of the animal husbandry at Ohio State University, closed the program with a few remarks concerning Shorthorn cattle and the Teegardin family.

Other agricultural and cattle celebrities at the picnic were Mrs. Lottie Randolph, assistant state director of agriculture, Paul Hackett, manager of Hartman Farms; John McCorkle, cattle head at Ohio State University; T. D. Phillips, secretary of the Ohio Shorthorn Breeders' Association; Professor Donald Kays, head of the animal husbandry department at Ohio State University; Howard Davison, swine extension specialist at Ohio State University; William Hardy, field representative for Milking Shorthorn Cattle Association, and Win Kinnam, manager of the Ohio State Fair.

Oakwood Merry King Shown
Among the champion Shorthorns exhibited were Oakwood Merry King, 1939 grand champion Polled Shorthorn bull and Oakwood Harmony, Shorthorn cow, three times champion at the Chicago International Exposition.

A recording of a portion of the program was made by WLW officials and will be heard over that station at 12:15 p. m. Tuesday.

BUTCHER SWIMS 292 MILES, SETS NEW RIVER MARK

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., July 29—John V. Sigmund, 30-year-old St. Louis butcher, today claimed a world's record for his swim of 292 miles down the Mississippi River, which he completed here yesterday afternoon.

Exhausted and suffering from abdominal pains, Sigmund was taken from the river after 89 hours and 53 minutes in the water. Dr. P. J. Aquino of Caruthersville, who examined the swimmer, said his heart and lungs were in good condition, and that the pains apparently were nothing serious.

The accepted distance swimming record was set last year by Clarence Giles, of Billings, Mont., who swam 288 miles down the Yellowstone River. Prior to that, the record was 281 miles, set in 1933 by Pedro Candiotti of Argentina.

Sigmund, who is married and the father of two children, trained for a month before undertaking the swim. His wife and Marvin Plake, A. A. U. official, followed him in a boat. The swimmer left the water but twice, both time for treatment for minor wounds, during the swim, Plake said.

In one instance, Sigmund was injured when waves of a passing steamboat threw him against his own boat. In the other, he hurt his leg when he kicked against a submerged log.

Last year, Sigmund won the 28-mile swimming race from Alton, Ill., to St. Louis. During practice for it, he swam the distance with his hands tied behind his back.

ST. LOUIS, July 29—A 7-year-old prodigy, Sonny Kole of Edwardsville, Ill., today was hailed as a future marathon swimming genius. The boy swam 27 miles down the Mississippi River Saturday with no ill effects.

Trailed by his father, Stephen A. Kole, in a motorboat, Sonny covered the distance from just below Alton to St. Louis in eight hours and 15 minutes. When helped from the water, he said he felt "tired but O. K."

G. O. P. SOLONS WANT WALLACE TO RESIGN JOB

Michigan Committee Chief Says Leave Of Absence Not Sufficient

COMPLICATIONS CITED

Democrats See No Reason For Quitting; McNary To Keep Position

WASHINGTON, July 29—Congressional Republicans today called on Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to resign "for good," and not merely take a leave of absence, before he opens his campaign for the vice-presidency.

"There is just no question about it—he must resign," demanded Rep. Woodruff (R) Mich., chairman of a G.O.P. committee which has been studying agricultural phases of the campaign.

"Taking a leave of absence doesn't mean a thing—he still would have the same control over all those in the department, and the implications of the secretary of agriculture, with all the money he distributes throughout the country, running for office are unthinkable."

Soon after his nomination as President Roosevelt's running mate on the Democratic ticket, Secretary Wallace announced first he did not expect to resign, and later declared he would either resign or take a leave of absence without pay.

Woodruff, and other G.O.P. members of congress, declared he should "go into private life."

"Of course it's up to the secretary, but I think his good taste and judgment will compel him to resign," said Rep. Hope of Kansas, ranking Republican on the house agriculture committee.

Hope added that "it doesn't mean much, since he can only stay until January anyway."

Rep. Engel (R) Mich. demanded the resignation "for the good of the department of agriculture, and not for political reasons."

Administration Democrats, however, asserted there was no compelling reason why Wallace should resign.

"Senator McNary of Oregon, G.O.P. vice presidential nominee, is not resigning from the senate, is he?" asked Rep. Rankin (D) Miss. "The whole thing is a tempest in a teapot."

Should Wallace resign, there was an overwhelming sentiment in the house at least, among both Democrats and Republicans, that Rep. Marvin Jones (D) Tex., veteran chairman of the house agriculture committee, be appointed in his place.

The two officers were leading Scranton from his mother's home when, despite his handcuffs, he broke loose and seized a shotgun. Later, he surrendered quietly to State Policeman Jesse Shipley. Scranton was recently released from a state hospital for insane.

American citizens are beaten up in Shanghai, the more the Japanese public will be led to believe that the United States is powerless to send armed forces across the Pacific.

Then when this conviction is thoroughly embedded, the military will make their long contemplated drive into the Dutch East Indies.

NOTE—Looking further ahead, U. S. observers in the Orient also are convinced that when Hitler gets ready for his drive into South America, Japan will strike toward the Pacific coast of South America simultaneously.

RUSSIA-U. S. ALLIES?

All of this demonstrates the fact that the United States, if it is not to be left entirely alone in the Pacific, must move quickly and must secure friends. To date, there are only two potential friends worth worrying about.

1. Is Great Britain, which in fact is America's first line of defense, and which might be saved if the United States gave major aid.

2. Is Russia, the natural enemy of Japan, whom Japan fears more than she fears the United States. A hook-up between Russia and the United States could hamstring Japan, keep her powerless in the North Pacific.

That is why the Roosevelt-Bullitt statement denouncing Russia is so important. Bullitt was the man who persuaded Roosevelt to recognize Soviet Russia in the first place, and apparently he still has the last word on the country he now hates so bitterly.

So probably there will be no warming up to Russia, no matter what Japan does in the Pacific.

NEW ALLIANCE

A new Workers Alliance (union of WPA workers) is quietly in the making.

David Lasser, former Alliance president who resigned in protest against Communist and fellow-traveler domination of the executive board, has received so many pledges of rank-and-file support that he has undertaken to establish an entirely new organization. Three days after he quit, Lasser had received more than 1,000 letters from Alliance members and local leaders urging a new union.

Lasser's resignation apparently was a blow to the left-wing leaders. They had secretly planned to seize complete control of the Alliance at its national convention, originally scheduled for July 11. But his bolt and open charge that they were Reds upset this scheme, and they postponed the convention to August 28.

WOMAN MEMBER OF 'I AM' CULT FOUND DROWNED

LOS ANGELES, July 29—Authorities today investigated the death of Miss Frances W. Gillette, 55-year-old wealthy artist and reputed "I Am" religious cult member. The woman's body was found floating in the swimming pool of her ranch home at Le Verne.

The woman was clad in a nightgown. Three small red spots the size of pencil dots were on the back of her neck, police asserted. Mrs. Etta Gillette Curtis, the dead woman's 82-year-old mother, told officers Miss Gillette had been a member of the mystic cult for about two months.

Since joining the group she had become subject to periods of deep depression and melancholy, the mother said. Furthermore, Mrs. Curtis reported, her daughter began giving away her clothes and jewelry shortly after she was converted to the group.

The federal grand jury indicted the 24 leaders of the nationwide religious sect last week on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy.

BUTCHER SWIMS 292 MILES, SETS NEW RIVER MARK

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo., July 29—John V. Sigmund, 30-year-old St. Louis butcher, today claimed a world's record for his swim of 292 miles down the Mississippi River, which he completed here yesterday afternoon.

Exhausted and suffering from abdominal pains, Sigmund was taken from the river after 89 hours and 53 minutes in the water. Dr. P. J. Aquino of Caruthersville, who examined the swimmer, said his heart and lungs were in good condition, and that the pains apparently were nothing serious.

The accepted distance swimming record was set last year by Clarence Giles, of Billings, Mont., who swam 288 miles down the Yellowstone River. Prior to that, the record was 281 miles, set in 1933 by Pedro Candiotti of Argentina.

Sigmund, who is married and the father of two children, trained for a month before undertaking the swim. His wife and Marvin Plake, A. A. U. official, followed him in a boat. The swimmer left the water but twice, both time for treatment for minor wounds, during the swim, Plake said.

In one instance, Sigmund was injured when waves of a passing steamboat threw him against his own boat. In the other, he hurt his leg when he kicked against a submerged log.

Last year, Sigmund won the 28-mile swimming race from Alton, Ill., to St. Louis. During practice for it, he swam the distance with his hands tied behind his back.

ST. LOUIS, July 29—A 7-year-old prodigy, Sonny Kole of Edwardsville, Ill., today was hailed as a future marathon swimming genius. The boy swam 27 miles down the Mississippi River Saturday with no ill effects.

Trained by his father, Stephen A. Kole, in a motorboat, Sonny covered the distance from just below Alton to St. Louis in eight hours and 15 minutes. When helped from the water, he said he felt "tired but O. K."

G. O. P. SOLONS WANT WALLACE TO RESIGN JOB

Michigan Committee Chief Says Leave Of Absence Not Sufficient

Democrats See No Reason For Quitting; McNary To Keep Position

WASHINGTON, July 29—Congressional Republicans today called on Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to resign "for good," and not merely take a leave of absence, before he opens his campaign for the vice-presidency.

"There is just no question about it—he must resign," demanded Rep. Woodruff (R) Mich., chairman of a G.O.P. committee which has been studying agricultural phases of the campaign.

"Taking a leave of absence doesn't mean a thing—he still would have the same control over all those in the department, and the implications of the secretary of agriculture, with all the money he distributes throughout the country, running for office are unthinkable."

Soon after his nomination as President Roosevelt's running mate on the Democratic ticket, Secretary Wallace announced first he did not expect to resign, and later declared he would either resign or take a leave of absence without pay.

Woodruff, and other G.O.P. members of congress, declared he should "go into private life."

"Of course it's up to the secretary, but I think his good taste and judgment will compel him to resign," said Rep. Hope of Kansas, ranking Republican on the house agriculture committee.

Hope added that "it doesn't mean much, since he can only stay until January anyway."

Rep. Engel (R) Mich. demanded the resignation "for the good of the department of agriculture, and not for political reasons."

Administration Democrats, however, asserted there was no compelling reason why Wallace should resign.

"Senator McNary of Oregon, G.O.P. vice presidential nominee, is not resigning from the senate, is he?" asked Rep. Rankin (D) Miss. "The whole thing is a tempest in a teapot."

Should Wallace resign, there was an overwhelming sentiment in the house at least, among both Democrats and Republicans, that Rep. Marvin Jones (D) Tex., veteran chairman of the house agriculture committee, be appointed in his place.

CHIEF OF POLICE SHOT TO DEATH BY SUSPECT, 37

OLNEY, Ill., July 29—Wesley Scranton, 37, today was held for safety in a Newton, Ill., jail as feeling here ran high in the slaying of Police Chief William H. Armsey, whom Scranton fatally shot despite the fact that the latter was handcuffed.

Sheriff Harvey Moore was critically wounded when he went to Armsey's assistance. They had arrested Scranton for beating Ezra George, hired by the prisoner's estranged wife, Mrs. Erma Scranton, to prevent her husband from molesting her.

The two officers were leading Scranton from his mother's home when, despite his handcuffs, he broke loose and seized a shotgun. Later, he surrendered quietly to State Policeman Jesse Shipley. Scranton was recently released from a state hospital for insane.

American citizens are beaten up in Shanghai, the more the Japanese public will be led to believe that the United States is powerless to send armed forces across the Pacific.

Then when this conviction is thoroughly embedded, the military will make their long contemplated drive into the Dutch East Indies.

NOTE—Looking further ahead, U. S. observers in the Orient also are convinced that when Hitler gets ready for his drive into South America, Japan will strike toward the Pacific coast of South America simultaneously.

RUSSIA-U. S. ALLIES?

All of this demonstrates the fact that the United States, if it is not to be left entirely alone in the Pacific, must move quickly and must secure friends. To date, there are only two potential friends worth worrying about.

1, is Great Britain, which in fact is America's first line of defense, and which might be saved if the United States gave major aid.

2, is Russia, the natural enemy of Japan, whom Japan fears more than she fears the United States. A hook-up between Russia and the United States could hamstring Japan, keep her powerless in the North Pacific.

That is why the Roosevelt-Bullitt statement denouncing Russia is so important. Bullitt was the man who persuaded Roosevelt to recognize Soviet Russia in the first place, and apparently he still has the last word on the country he now hates so bitterly.

So probably there will be no warming up to Russia, no matter what Japan does in the Pacific.

NEW ALLIANCE

A new Workers Alliance (union of WPA workers) is quietly in the making.

David Lasser, former Alliance president who resigned in protest against Communist and fellow-traveler domination of the executive board, has received so many pledges of rank-and-file support that he has undertaken to establish an entirely new organization. Three days after he quit, Lasser had received more than 1,000 letters from Alliance members and local leaders urging a new union.

Lasser's resignation apparently was a blow to the left-wing leaders. They had secretly planned to seize complete control of the Alliance at its national convention, originally scheduled for July 11. But his bolt and open charge that they were Reds upset this scheme, and they postponed the convention to August 28.

Mrs. Jennie B. Moton, widow of the former President of Tuskegee University. She works in the field offices, handling complaints and explaining the program to colored farmers. . . . H. G., WASHINGTON—The job of assistant translator, for which Civil Service is now offering an exam, pays only $2,000, though the candidates are expected to have command of four languages—French, German, Italian, and Spanish. Result is that the Government gets mediocre people who have a smattering of all four languages, an expertness in none. . . . K. S., BOSTON—It was in 1914 that the Germans first gave assurances to the United States that they had no territorial designs in this hemisphere. Ambassador Bernsdorff, in a note to Secretary of State Bryan, used language strikingly similar to the language the Germans use today: "I am instructed by my Government to deny most categorically the rumors circulated by English agents to the effect that Germany, in case she emerges victorious from the present war, intends to seek expansion in South America." . . . J. L. C., SALEM, OHIO—The U. S. makes no charges for carrying great quantities of Argentine mail to Chile and other South American countries on U. S. ships. Supposed to be a reciprocal arrangement, actually the U. S. gives extensive service free and gets practically nothing in return. It is a part of the good-will program.

Mr. Heim had been a resident of Franklin County for many years.

Other survivors are a son, the Rev. Ralph D. Heim of Gettysburg; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Anne Smith and Mrs. Walter B. Cole, both of Canal Winchester, and four grandchildren.

Mr. Heim was a member of the Lutheran Church at Marcy.

WOMAN MEMBER OF 'I AM' CULT FOUND DROWNED

LOS ANGELES, July 29—Authorities today investigated the death of Miss Frances W. Gillette, 55-year-old wealthy artist and reputed "I Am" religious cult member. The woman's body was found floating in the swimming pool of her ranch home at La Verne.

The woman was clad in a nightgown. Three small red spots the size of pencil dots were on the back of her neck, police asserted.

Mrs. Etta Gillette Curtis, the dead woman's 82-year-old mother, told officers Miss Gillette had been a member of the mystic cult for about two months.

Since joining the group she had become subject to periods of deep depression and melancholy, the mother said. Furthermore, Mrs. Curtis reported, her daughter began giving away her clothes and jewelry shortly after she was converted to the group.

The federal grand jury indicted the 24 leaders of the nationwide religious sect last week on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy.
